Glossary

Term/Abbreviation	Meaning
Equality	Equality refers to the fair treatment of all regardless of any protected characteristics. An equal workplace is not just one that is free from discrimination, true equality means that all individuals have genuine and equal access to opportunities and are celebrated for their differences.
Diversity	Diversity is recognising difference and acknowledging the great benefits of having a range of perspectives in decision-making and the workforce being representative of Gamma's customers and society as whole.
Inclusion	Inclusion is a workplace where individual differences are valued and celebrated to enable everyone to thrive at work. Every individual should feel they belong, that their contribution matters and that they are able to perform to their full potential regardless of their background, identity or circumstances. Gamma aims to create an inclusive environment for all, recognising, accepting and celebrating all differences to enable all employees to reach their full potential.
Unlawful discrimination	Direct discrimination – where a person is treated less favourably than another because of a protected characteristic. Indirect discrimination – where a provision, criterion or practice is applied that is discriminatory in relation to individuals who have a relevant protected characteristic (although it does not explicitly include pregnancy and maternity, which is covered by indirect sex discrimination) such that it would be to the detriment of people who share that protected characteristic compared with people who do not, and it cannot be shown to be a proportionate means of achieving a legitimate aim. Disability discrimination – occurs where an individual is unjustifiably disadvantaged in employment/recruitment for a reason connected with their disability unless the discrimination cannot be avoided by making reasonable adjustments. Associative discrimination – where an individual is directly discriminated against or harassed for association with another individual who has a protected characteristic (although it does not cover harassment because of marriage and civil partnership and pregnancy and maternity).

	Perceptive discrimination – where an individual is directly discriminated against or harassed based on a perception that they have a particular protected characteristic when they do not, in fact, have that protected characteristic (other than marriage and civil partnership, and pregnancy and maternity). Victimisation – occurs where an employee is subjected to a detriment, such as being denied a training opportunity or a promotion because they made or supported a complaint or raised a grievance under the Equality Act 2010, or because they are suspected of doing so. However, an employee is not protected from victimisation if they acted maliciously or made or supported an untrue complaint. There is no longer a need for a complainant to compare their treatment with someone who has not made or supported a complaint under the Equality Act 2010. For example, if a blind employee raises a grievance that the employer is not complying with its duty to make reasonable adjustments, and is then systematically excluded from all meetings, such behaviour could amount to victimisation. Failure to make reasonable adjustments – where a physical feature or a provision, criterion or practice puts a disabled person at a substantial disadvantage compared with someone who does not have that protected characteristic and the employer has failed to make reasonable adjustments to enable the disabled person to overcome the disadvantage.
